FOR DRAMATIC DIVERSION.

THE REPRODUCTION OF EDWARD HARRIGAN'S "THE MAJOR."

New and Better Things in "The Twentieth Century Girl"-Changes in the Cast of "A Milk White Fing"-Kathryn Kid-Arra Account of a Viett She Made to Sardon-The Week's Theatrical Bills.

An audience at Harrigan's Theatre last evening was interested and amused by a revival of The Major," the last previous performance of which had been given ten years before. In the writing of this comedy Edward Harrigan copied from life one of the best-drawn characthat he has acted. It is that of Major Gileather, Tombs lawyer, ward politician, sportng man, war veteran, loquacious braggart, and pecunious borrower. This is the fellow who, when asked if he spouts Shakespeare, replies that he spouts everything.

With all his faults he is popular alike with the others in the play and the people in the auditorium. That is caused by his good humor, collowit, and glib Irish brogue. He is a disinct and recognizable type, now growing every police court in the city. The stage scenes in which he figures are a cheap boarding house, a policy shop, a steamship pier, a prison corridor, and a housetop. Among his twentyone companions are Mr. Wild's droll negro, Mr. Fisher's dialect German, Mrs. Yeamans's comic woman, Mr. Sparks's deep-brogued Irishman, as seen again and again in the Harrigan entertainments. They are quite welcome again. So are the Braham songs with which "The Major" is sprinkled. The fun ranges from witty groes through the ceiling of a room being one of the episodes. The whole entertainment is thoroughly characteristic of the author, the company, and the theatre, and is not likely to disappoint anybody who goes to see it.

Edwin Stevens has made rapid progress in the crochetting he does in "The 20th Century Girl," at the Bijou, though he still drops sev eral stitches nightly. As the maiden of advanced mannishness Bettina Girard is making like improvement in her management of top pockets and cigarettes. The latter go all right when lighted, but it often takes several matches to get them started. After two or three have failed to be of use, Edwin Stevens's position is an odd one, for he is opposed to a lady who is independence makes it impossible for him to

Changes in the performance since the opening night provide a chance for Al. H. Wilson's spe cialty and a comical rehearsal of singing by John T. Kelly. There is a new dance, too, for Lillian Thurgute, and a beautiful trio in the third act for Minnie Landes, Edith Howe, and Arthur Craw-

Thereste, and a beautiful trio inthe threact for Minnie Landes, Edith Howe, and Arthur Crawford.

The humor that Harry Conor brings to the delineation of comic rôles is so much a personal quality that the particular field of its exhibibition is never important, and that fact was demonstrated last night when he joined the forces that are mustered under "The Milk White Flag." at Hoyt's Theatre. He was as amusing as the militia Colonel that Napoleon looked like as he was in his famous Welland Strong days, and he was never anything but himself, for his unfamiliarity with the rôle he undertook did not extend beyond a slight acquaintance with the lines of its text. But he was as unctuous and naturally humorous, his ample smile as irresitibly contagious, and his manner as innately comic as it was when he made as year's stop at this same theatre and introduced himself to New York liking as a comedian who was a rarely successful entertainer. When he has become familiar with his new part and devoloped its opportunities for by-play as elaborately as he is able to, Colonel Christien Benicl will become as famous a mosaic of fun as Welland Strong, and it will never become anything beyond an exhibition of Mr. Conor's personal humor and his power to express it. If "The Milk White Flag," were not destined to wave soon in other towns Mr. Conor's contribution to the humor might keep it here for months to come.

The diversity of plays is so great this week that visitors to the theatres may find just about the kind of entertainment they prefer. Realstic sensationalism is more abundant than anything else, however, for we have it in its most riclent modern forms at Palmer's in "The Fatal Card," at the Harlem Opera House in "The Coton King,"at the Fourteenth Street in "Humanity." at the Columbus in "The Derby Winner." and at the People's in "On the Mississippi." But seekers of strong dramas of a more intellectual character may depend on getting satisfaction from "The Masqueraders" at the Empire, "The District Attorney" at the American, "Gismonda" at the Fifth Avenue, or "A Bunch of Violets" at Abbey's, Comedies of a good grade are "Mme. Sans Gene" at the Broadway, and "The Case of Rebellious Susan" at the Lyceum. Native humorous pieces, contrastingly of town and country, are "The Old Homestead" at the Star and "The Major" at Homestead" at the Star and "The Major" at the Major and the representation of the Major and the merchant of the Major and th But seekers of strong dramas of a more inteltrastingly of town and country, are "The Old Homestead" at the Star and "The Major" at Harrigan's. Irish life is depicted in "Rory of the Hill" at the Academy of Music and "Killaracy" at Niblo's. Comic opera is represented by "Rob Roy" at the Herald Square and "The Little Trooper" at the Brooklyn Columbia; buriesque by "Little Christopher" at the Garden, "A Tragedy Rehearsed" at Daly's, and "The Twentieth Century Gill" at the Bijour legitimate farceby "Too Much Johnson" at the Standard and "The Orient Express" at Daly's; vandeville farce by "A Milk White Flag" at Hoyt's and "The Flams" at the Grand Opera House, and pantomime by "The Dresden Shepherless" at the Eden Musée.

Mr. Tree and his company are to play "Captain Switt" on Thursday afternoon at Abbey's for the benefit of the families of those who lost their lives on the steamship Elbe. Miss Oldcastle's matines at Daly's will occur on Thursday, too.

The latest member of the Shaffer family to show here is a woman, and she comes on at Proctor's in a handsome gown of dark red that exactly matches the plush coverings of the chair and sofa that are in sight. Ordinarily the furniture of the variety show setting gains a familiar look in the same way that a ten-pound roast for a family of three does; it comes on too often. But this chair and sofa are brightly new, and play a far more important part in the specialty than such things usually do. They are balanced on the performer's feet while she is on her back on a standard seven feet above the stage, and are turned about in many odd ways. By moving her legs much as if she were walking, one step is upon, or beneath the sofa, the next brings it to a support on its back, and then the it to a support on its back, and then the supporting feet are against sides, front, and top. These movements are so rapid that the sofa is kept revolving quickly, and the upsidedown walk becomes a rim. This revolutions of the chair are more difficult, for its points of support are its legs and back, which are so small as to necessitate skiful halancing. Later their place is taken by a wine bottle that is five feet leng and it is kept revolving rapidly, with the sure describing a circle three feet in diameters and its bottom doing the same. With her back support placed upon the stage, a lighted lamp is put upon the bottom of one of the juggler's upraised feet, and is then turned over in air once to return to the same resting place. Miss Shaffer are in luggles smaller articles, such as early pipes and balls, in a conventional way, and the most novel trick empires a billiard cue and two billiard balls. With the cue held in hand the two spheres are balanced, one on top of the other, upon its butt, and the suc is then raised till the performer's hadd is held at about its tip. One ball is then particles held at about its tip. One ball is then particles held at about its tip. One ball is then particles are becoming more and more enjoyable as the bard of account on their return.

The two latest recruits to Koster & Bial's fores are women, and both their specialties are becoming more and more enjoyable as she selects Americans for her subjects, and Alcide apitaine does gracefully on a trapeze raised as buth as possible above the stage the difficult feats done by male circus performers.

The specialist who gives a performance of club supporting feet are against sides, front,

The specialist who gives a performance of club stinging, juggling, or some such feats that resteadiness of muscle while standing upon ball of about two feet in diameter is not an familiar sight in the variety shows. Some few of these fellows acquire such a degree of will that they can roll the ball rapidly about as they keep at their hand tricks, and the crowning w far has consisted in rolling the ball up one and of a see-saw and down the other, the angle he being so great as to seemingly set at the force of gravity. But this feat is this week at the Union Square by a percalled Leo Dervalto, who looks, by the very much like Harry La Rose and who troluces his best effort by the same skilisplay that that performer was wont take. His latest device employs a platform, that goes around a central support and by successive turns We drops. The atructure is very like the one used by a circus performer of several years ago, though in his case he simply rode a bicycle to the top and back. The present vehicle is simply the well-chalked sphere, which is propelled solely by the weight of the man it supports, in going upward he necessarily stands well forward of its centre, and the incline is so steep that his foothold on the curved and slanting surface is most uncertain. The return is seemingly as difficult, but in this case his weight is all expended as a brake. The constant danger of a fall, with appearances favoring a damaging one, are all in the performer's favor with his audiences, and his narrow and winding way is watched closely. One feminins observer has been heard to ask if he will catch the bail if he falls, which is only another proof that the road to fame is arduous and uncertain.

Another sign of this is in the experience of H. S. Sanderson, for twenty-three years the manager of Pastor's. The Sheriff's reform deputies report that he is not to be found at 143 East Fourteenth street, Pastor's Theatre, which is a matter that will cause considerable surprise to vaudeville folk, especially when they learn that he is well and on duty, his work now including a regular Monday matinée. With another variety manager, Louis Roble, in charge of Miner's Eighth Avenue and Bowery theatres, the report is more serious, for he is ill with the grip, and there is small hope of his recovery.

knack with the ability to write successfully as does Sardou. Interviews with him are usually short and to the point. Kathryn Kidder, who has had recent dealings with him, said to a Sun reporter: "I almost feel that my impressions of this great man are hardly worth voicing, as there are so many others who have the advantage of knowing him better, or have had more opportunities of observing him. However, the recollections of my first visit to his study are very keen, and I have had the pleasure of becoming better acquainted with him through his friends. It was a beautiful room, filled with rare and wonderful things from which he evolves the ideas and constructs the characters that go out to represent him in all civilized countries. Flooded with sunshine it was the morning I was presented to sunshine it was the morning I was presented to the great dramatist; veritably hanging above the branches of the trees and removed by its height from the noise and bustle of the street below. My first thought on seeing Sardou was, 'How small a body for so big a man!' His graciousness and charm of manner, together with his marvellous flowers of conversation seemed to wipe out everything, but an intense interest in following what he was saying. My visit was entirely of a business nature, and although very little was said in regard to my prospective association with his last and most charming comedy, he remarked in a half kindly and critical way that he was satisfied from what he had seen of me that I had the requisite ability and talent to play the fole of Muslame Sans Gene, but he laughingly added, 'I cannot imagine you sitting on a man's lap.' However, if any one else doubts my ability in that direction, let him or her come and see me in the first act of 'Sans Gene,' Sardou had quiet but thorough confidence in his play, which was not entertained then by his best friends or most ardent admirers. Even Alexander Dumas, whom I met at Sardou's country place, Marly-le-Rol, expressed his fears for the result of introducing the character of Napoleon in the production. The confidence of Sardou had seeming vicissitudes." the great dramatist; veritably hanging above sways shared through all seeming vicinsitudes."

Sardou telegraphed laudation to Fanny Davenport yesterday as follows: "I must convey to you my heartfelt thanks for all the beautiful results of your labor on my 'Gismonda.' I felt certain when I placed her in your fair hands that another success awaited you. To an artist the artistic is doubly welcome, and I understand from all sides how marvellous is the mise en seeme, how grand your acting, and how perfect in all details the production. My sincere applause and heartfelt thanks."

TIM, THE PROP OF COMMERCE.

Do Something for His Term.

Congressman Timothy Justinian Campbell, a heart, has got an appropriation for elevators in the New York Custom House. To the greater glory of the Hon. Timothy Justinian, the appropriation was made up in part by skinning Chicago. Mr. Campbell's brother has the restaurant privilege in the Custom House.

"Would that Mr. Campbell had a dozen brothers, so that they might all have restaurant privileges in the Custom House," was the ver-dict after Mr. Campbell skinned Chicago and got the elevators.

Mr. Campbell has only a month to serve, but he intends to go out in a burst of glory, and if possible give us an appropriation to complete the new Appraiser's stores after a fashion that will make it an honor to the town. By piecemeal and only after the most harrowing nagging Congress appropriated the money for the land and for the first two floors. Work then stopped. Recently there was another niggardly $200,000 appropriated, all through the efforts of Mr. Campbell. Collector Kilbreth, in a long deem it advisable that Congress should be authoritatively informed that it will be found to be wholly inadequate for the purpose.

"In a communication, dated May 2, 1894, to the Honorable Secretary of the Treasury, in which I transmitted, with my approval, a letter of even date from the Appraiser of this port, I expressed the opinion that the interests of the service would be better subserved by remaining in the present quarters than by attempting to remove to this two-story building. On May 24, 1894, I transmitted a further report of the United States Appraiser, dated May 7, and also a letter from Mr. G. C. Tichenor, President of the Board of General Appraisers, dated May 18, 1894, relative to the same subject matter.

"The Government now pays annually a rental of $66,400 for the space, three floors, each 50x100 feet, occupied by the Board of General Appraisers; and $1,500 for the space, three floors, each 50x100 feet, occupied by the Board of General Appraisers; and $1,500 for the small building adjoining, used as a laboratory, making a total rental of $76,400 per annum.

"I am informed, although I have not verified used as a laboratory, making a total rental of $76,400 per annum.

"I am informed, although I have not verified the figures and do not pretend to state the exact fact, that the Appraiser's store has thus far involved an expenditure upon the part of the fovernment for land and construction of about $1,-200.000. ernment for land and construction of about $1,-200,000.

"The rental now paid for an unsatisfactory and unsuitable building represents an investment of over $2,500,000 upon a capitalization at three per cent. This amount added to the sum already expended for an unoccupied and entirely insufficient structure swells the total of the investment to more than $3,700,000. It would seem that, from a financial boint of view, it is to the manifest interest and profit of the Government to complete with expedition the new building according to the original plans for the same, which provided for a structure of ten stories. Not until such building is completed, or equally capacious quarters are provided, can the business of the Government be conducted upon proper and satisfactory lines."

Mr. Campbell is to work this month for New York's customs service as he never worked before. If he can skin Chicago a little more he will be the patron saint of the customs service.

OREGON SHORT LINE UTAH NORTHERN RAILWAY COMPANY

Consolidated Mortgage and Collateral Trust 5 Per Cent. Bonds. The Committee now represents more than of these bonds who have not yet deposited them to do so forthwith with the American Loan and Trust Company in Boston or the New York Guaranty and Indemnity Company in New York.

A crists in the affairs of the company is at hand. The present condition of affairs cannot continue much longer. The bondholders must act together either to secure the full value of their property if Congressional legislation permits a reorganization of the Union Pacific system to protect it if the first mortgage bondholders attempt foreclosure, as has been suggested, or to realize their own share if foreclosure of their own mortgage becomes necessary. Those who act alone will find it practically impossible to secure either result.

The hearing on the petition for a separate receiver ship of your property has been postponed to March A, and the time for the deposit of bonds is therefore extended to Feb. 20, after which date a penalty will be S. ENDICOTT PEABODY, Chairman, (President American Loan and Trust Co., Boston,)
